

Bloodborne Pathogens

Bloodborne pathogens are microorganisms in the bloodstream. They can cause many diseases such as AIDS, Hepatitis, Syphilis, and more. Bloodborne Pathogens have been found in many bodily fluids, including blood, semen, vaginal secretions, vomit, breast milk, saliva, urine, and tears.